Licensing a Fallout of Scandal?

The San Diego City Treasurer's office is making telephone calls to business firms in the County—including Lemon Grove and Spring Valley.

The office wants to know if local firms are conducting business county-wide and refer to the yellow pages of the telephone book as the basis of the inquiry.

Three local firms answered yes—truthfully—explaining that it was necessary to service some of the items sold when the purchaser resided outside the city limit.

The voice then said that the local firms would be required to pay a San Diego City license of $50, plus $4 for each of their employees. For the three local firms the average was $62.

During the ensuing discussion it was revealed that the City would invoke the charge for 1970, 1971 as well as 1972. That made $186.

Then it was explained that there would be a 10 per cent penalty. That made it $204.60. City firms pay $25 a year for their licenses.

It would be short-sighted if county firms didn't try to persuade the Board of Supervisors to establish a retaliatory license against the city duds.

Such a license tends to establish a barrier to commerce between city and county folk—a barrier which will in no way help the presently less-than-virile economy of the county.

If the county were to initiate a retaliatory tax against "city foreigners", the City could be depended upon to increase their "foreigners' tax". If this happens, it is easy to foresee more dissension in a county already torn by some unusual shenanigans.

For example, both City Council and the County Board of Supervisors have been under attack for a variety of alleged misconduct charges. These range from alleged bribery charges to self-imposed raises in salary.

On top of this unpleasantness are charges that the City is being "had" because ITT's largess failed to materialize in the matter of the forthcoming national convention. Then last week there was the added charge in LIFE magazine that justice in San Diego had been "seriously tampered with" by Federal functionaries. The John Alessio case was one the article had reference to.

Eyebrows here must have been hiked even higher by the tragic loss of "records" in a Tijuana fire Sunday. These may have been the records necessary to clear some of the accused about whom LIFE magazine editors wrote.

No less believable is that the business license excursion by the City may be part of the City's need to raise convention-cost money that fell in short supply when Reporter Jack Anderson blew the whistle on ITT and its overly generous officials.

Thus, the business license caper may indeed be the fallout of scandal that has rocked San Diego in a manner reminiscent of the old Chicago days.

Program Shuffled

CoC Banquet On As Scheduled Saturday

There was a quick shuffling of the program but the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce installation banquet will go on Saturday as scheduled, according to George Tonner, dinner chairman.

The installation will be at the L.G. VFW Hall, 2885 Imperial ave. And KOGO's famed Bob Mills and Jim Hill will be there but they'll have to leave directly after dinner because each has television commitments that night. Mills is a newscaster and is the "Dialing for Dollars" star. Jim Hill is the teevee sportscaster during the summer and free safety star of the Chargers during football season.

Both men will mingle with the group Saturday discussing their fields of endeavor. The two had planned to m.c. the dinner but when they found conflicting assignments, George Fickas agreed to take the chore. Fickas has achieved considerable attention as a home-town wit but he claims that the appellation is only half right. Nonetheless, he is in constant demand as a humorist.

Fred Burns Installed

Fred Burns, owner and operator of Frederick's Carpet Service in Lemon Grove, was installed as president of the San Diego County Floor Covering Association at its annual meeting succeeding L. L. DeGrodt, of Carpet Work Room. Association members are licensed contractors.

The 22-year old association is currently formulating a comprehensive public relations and promotion program for the betterment of the industry county-wide. Burns said.

The program will operate as SIR, an acronym for "service, integrity and responsibility."

Inferno Destroys Historic Church

St. Philip's Destroyed In Saturday Afternoon Blaze

One of San Diego County's oldest churches went up in smoke Saturday afternoon after a 12-year old youngster playing with candles accidentally set off an inferno that gutted the 85-year old St. Philip the Apostle Church at 2660 Hardy dr., Lemon Grove.

The fire, which was reported to the Lemon Grove Fire Department at 1:57 p.m., apparently started after a San Altos School student, tipped over candles, which set fire to curtains in the structure.

According to Fire Marshal Roy Carmody, the youth was in the church alone at the time of the incident. The suspect reportedly confessed to his school principal.

Church Sexton Charles Bland, who spotted the blaze, tried to extinguish it with a hose, but the flames, feeding on the redwood structure, continued to grow. Bland notified the fire department.

When firemen arrived, less than two minutes later, the flames were shooting from nearly every window and twirling up the steeple of the historic church.

Three engine companies fought the blaze for about 15 minutes before it was brought under control, and when it was all over, all that remained of the church was walls and the steeple, all charred. The roof, although still intact, was declared unsafe, and the building was sealed off.

Fire chief Fred Dixon estimated the damage at more than $100,000.

Decisions whether to rebuild the historical structure have yet to be made pending meetings of the church vestry, parishoners and insurance representatives. The church will continue as usual, held in the parish hall for 419 Palm Sunday communicants. Lenten services will be held at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, and three services are scheduled for Easter Sunday, all in the parish hall.

The Lemon Grove Rotary-sponsored pageant is an annual affair to select the town's reigning queen and representative in the Fairest of the Fair Contest, held each year to select a queen of the Southern California Exposition at Del Mar.

The first two applicants for the Miss Lemon Grove beauty pageant, which is scheduled for April 15, are Madelyn Merrie Stepek and Cheryl Lynn Bolieu.

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce will hold a business meeting today at noon at Pal's Cafe, 3521 Imperial ave., Lemon Grove.

On the agenda will be discussion of the Old Time Days Carnival, which will be co-sponsored by the chamber and the Old Time Days Association May 10-14.

The chamber is also presently in the midst of a membership drive, under the chairmanship of Rita Wells, who listed the following businesses as new members since last month's meeting:

Stella's House of Glamour, 7919 Broadway, Frank S. Drongowski, DDS, 3048 Main st., Lemon Grove Thrift Shop, 7975 Broadway, Jac's Catering Service, 7810 Broadway, John Michael's Hair Stylist, 7918 Broadway, Winchell's Donuts, 7863 Broadway, L.G. In other chamber business, local businesses have been asked to notify the CoC office of the following: name of business, phone number, type of service, major items sold, and hours open. Information may be sent to the office at 3415 Lyons Valley and from Chase Imperial ave., Lemon Grove, ave. to Campo rd.

CHURCH DESTROYED — St. Philip the Apostle Church, at 2660 Hardy dr., Lemon Grove, was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. Although the walls and steeple still stand, the inside of the church was a pile of rubble and what remains of the roof stands in danger of falling in. Several religious relics were lost in the blaze, which was extinguished by three units of the Lemon Grove Fire Department.

Goals to be Presented to Citizens At Planners Confab This Evening

A general meeting of the Lemon Grove Planning Association will be held this evening in the Lemon Grove Junior High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m. to acquaint members of the association and citizens of the area with work that has been completed by the association's executive committee.

On the agenda will be discussion of goals presented by subcommittees which will serve as guidelines in the development of the community, according to association chairman Jim Dorman.

Six of the association's eight subcommittees have formulated goals which will be discussed at the meeting, and two subcommittees, although goals have yet to be adopted by the executive committee, will outline their suggestions if time permits.

The Schools and Education Subcommittee has listed utilization of school facilities during non-school hours as one of its major goals. Other goals include the addition of school sites in areas of potential development and to maintain a high level of education in order to meet the needs of the community.

The Public Facilities Subcommittee report calls for the eventual replacement of overhead utility lines with underground facilities when it is to the public's interest and feasible. Expanded library facilities, more and improved parking, improved street lighting, expansion of trash disposal service, and a community center large enough to accommodate community meetings also are included in the report.

Two other major provisions in the Public Facilities Subcommittee report are the support of supervised youth activities to contribute toward the total personal development of youth and to require residential and commercial developments, to the maximum extent possible, to furnish municipal improvements within development areas such as extension of sewer and water lines, installation of streets, sidewalks, and gutters, as well as off street parking, park and school sites, and underground utilities.

The Parks and Recreation Subcommittee recommended the establishment of a recreation district and acquisition of sites for mini-parks and green areas as major goals for the community.

Other Parks and Recreation Subcommittee goals included the development cycle routes, bridge and walking trails, community wide support of the Lemon Grove Youth Center, and the promotion of academic and sedentary activities for all age groups.

The Transportation Subcommittee, in giving its report, indicated that sidewalks on at least one side of streets should be a priority item, as well as the development of cycle, bridge, and walking trails. One of its more interesting suggestions was that of making the area open as a location for experimental programs related to mass transit. Also on the list of recommendations was the construction of a heliport.

One of the more extensive reports was that of the Commercial Subcommittee, which recommended the renovation of the existing business district for the orderly growth of businesses, professional services and industry to provide a balance with residential and recreational areas.

The report included such recommended changes as eliminating the patchwork development of unlike and dissimilar businesses and creating architecturally controlled business districts.

Sign control, upgrading of physical appearance of local businesses, ease of access to businesses, and the prohibition of future inroads of industry and business incompatible to the area as well as restricting new industry to exclude noxious emissions of smoke, fumes, odors, noise, and water pollutants were also recommended.

Rounding out reports which are scheduled for discussion will be the Health and Social Services Subcommittee, which included as its major goal that the association adopt the specific goal of assuring the provision of adequate and necessary health care and social services to all residents.

Health Clinic

An emergency health clinic within the community, a community-based family counseling center and a general hospital are also included in the report.

Goals for all subcommittees are for development over the next 20 years, according to Dorman.

The final two subcommittees are the environmental impact subcommittee and the residential subcommittee. Neither has had its goals adopted by the executive committee, but will be open to discussion if time permits.

Goals of the environmental impact report include the preservation of the quality of a natural suburban environment and the prohibition of development where it would measurably deteriorate the quality of the environment.

The residential subcommittee report includes limiting the population of the area to 30,000, limiting multiple family dwelling units, and restricting the size and density of mobile home parks.

The meeting is open to the public and will convene at 7:30 p.m.

Mouse Causes Stir

Quite a stir was caused last week at the Lemon Grove College of Beauty when several girls waving aprons and towels were seen running in and out of a back room screaming.

After the commotion had died down, most everyone agreed that the moment had warranted a pause from routine, phone number, type of service, major items sold, and hours open. Information may be sent to the office at 3415 Lyons Valley and from Chase Imperial ave., Lemon Grove, ave. to Campo rd.

Hardison's Telespanish

By JAMES HARDISON

"Feliz Pascuas" is a solution that is in vogue this week for the approaching Easter holidays. "Feliz Pascuas" means "Happy Easter." We might respond to this greeting by saying "Igualmente" which literally means "Equally" but suggests a more comprehensive idea which is idiomatically translated "And the same to you."

"No hay conejos." (There are no rabbits.), and as far as the celebration is concerned, that is a fact. Easter is celebrated in most Spanish-speaking areas without the fun and games of the old fashioned Easter egg hunt, the chocolate bunnies, painted eggs and straw filled baskets.

"Es una ocasion solemne." (it is a solemn occasion.) It is a time for rejoicing in prayer. We might ask "Que clase de ocasion es?" (What kind of an occasion is it?) or "Que hacen en Pascuas?" (What is done during Easter?). A response to these questions might be "Pasan a la iglesia." (They go to church.), or "Ofrecen las gracias." (They offer thanks.).

"Llevan flores a la iglesia." (They carry flowers to the church.). There may also be occasion to say "Adornan las iglesias." (They adorn the church.), or "Dicen oraciones." (They say prayers.), as well as "Llenen sus espíritus con amor." (They fill their spirits with love.).

"Van a la iglesia el domingo." (They go to church on Sunday.) might describe one of the major activities. "Regresan y descansan." (They return and rest.) might be the best description of the activities for the rest of the day.

Phrases listed below are designed to assist you in advancing your conversation in the language. A recorded voice will direct you in the proper pronunciation of the phrases when you dial 276-2762. You will hear each word said individually and then each phrase. A pause is provided after each word and each phrase allowing you enough time to repeat aloud what you have heard.

IMPORTANT PHRASES:

Say "Feliz Pascuas." (feh-LEES pah-koo-AHS) for "Happy Easter." Say "Hay conejos?" (AH-ee koh-NEH-hohs) for "Are there (any) rabbits?"

Say "No hay conejos." (noh AH-ee koh-NEH-hohs) for "There are no rabbits." Say "Que hacen?" (keh AH-sehn) for "What do they do?"

Say "Dicen oraciones." (DEE-sehn oh-rah-see-OH-nehs) for "They say prayers." Say "Van a la iglesia." (VAHN ah lah ee-GLEE-see-ah) for "They go to church."

Less Pollution From Nuclear Power Plant, Kiwanis Club Told

The nuclear power plant at San Onofre, which started operation in 1968, causes less pollution than the older type fossil-fuel power plants, the Spring Valley Kiwanis Club was told by Jerry Rommelt, San Diego Gas and Electric Plant Representative.

Two major monitoring programs were started in 1964 to determine background radiation levels in the area and to determine characteristics of marine environment in the waters offshore from San Onofre.

Tests now show that there is no change in radiation levels because of the power plant operation. Testing equipment is so sensitive that five days after the recent Chinese atomic blasts were made, radio-active particles were detected in the atmosphere here.

In answer to questions, Rommelt said that nuclear power plants cost more to build but that fuel costs are extremely low.

Hadl to Head Up C.H.A.D. Project

The National Football League's Man of the Year will forsake the goalposts temporarily to lead a "no-goal campaign" for C.H.A.D., the Combined Health Agencies Drive of San Diego, through the month of April.

John Hadl, the San Diego Chargers star quarterback, has been named Campaign Chairman for C.H.A.D.'s third annual drive on behalf of eight national health agencies here. The appeal, made through business and industry for corporate gifts and on-the-job giving, raises funds for vital research projects, medical care and other therapy, and preventive programs.

The eight agencies which formed C.H.A.D. two years ago to cut unnecessary money-raising costs and duplication of appeals, include the San Diego branches of the American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, Arthritis Foundation, National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Muscular Dystrophy Association, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation and the National Association for Mental Health.

Two Local Students Claim BofA Awards

Two local college students were announced last week among the winners in the first round competition of Bank of America's annual $85,800 California Community College Awards Program.

Joseph P. Cahill, of 1731 Elora St., Lemon Grove, joined seven other students from the San Diego-Imperial Counties area as winners in the business division. In the science-engineering division, Paul E. Pugner, of 10004 Sierra Madre, Spring Valley, joined six other winners. Both are sophomores at Grossmont College.

The students now advance to one of five semi-final area competitions in Southern California. At the area events, two students from each of the four fields will be selected for the finals. Those advancing are assured of at least $350, with all others at the area competitions receiving $150.

At the area events, the students will be asked to discuss an unannounced subject related to their field of study before a panel of business and civic leaders presided over by a prominent educator. The student's scholastic record, citizenship, leadership and service will also be considered in the judging.

Semi-final winners will advance to the Southern California finals in April at the Los Angeles Hilton Hotel. Selection process will be the same as the area events, with judging in each field being held separately.

All finalists receive at least $250 and have an opportunity to win the top $2,000 first place awards. Second place awards are $1,000, with $500 going to third place winners.

Scholarships To Be Awarded

Two high school seniors, one from Mt. Miguel and one from Monte Vista, will receive awards from the Scholarship-Campership chairman, Mrs. Virginia Ruggles this morning. These are given annually in honor of Jessica Higby and Grace Golden, founders of the Spring Valley Community welfare.

The "Lewis and Clark" campership, named after Thelma Lewis and Mary Clark who were charter members of the association, and the Odesa Collins campership are awarded annually.

Mrs. Dave Paul, Fashion show coordinator, will present models who will offer a variety of styles from Woman's World; Mrs. William Brendstein, Mrs. Nettie Johnson, Mrs. Roger Kellhofer, Mrs. Henry Mosley, Mrs. John Renkowski, and Mrs. Larry Rudd.

Dear Editor,

I disapprove of political lawsuits. In filing such suits, candidates attempt to gain publicity at the taxpayers' expense and create additional hardships in our already overburdened courts.

Moreover, I believe that when a candidate is served with such a lawsuit he should limit his public comment so as to discourage this waste of taxpayers' money. The suit I would like to see filed is one which would require candidates to obey the law with regard to the posting of their political signs — an enormous eyesore and public nuisance.

Drafting Room Table Results From Combined Class Efforts

In the Mt. Miguel High School drafting room stands the combined efforts of several classes. It is a unique furnishing, constructed of tubular framework and a slanted wood top.

The idea for the addition was first born in the drafting room when instructor Harold Borg decided that his students needed specific examples of professional architectural designs.

With that in mind, his advanced students compiled a list of names and addresses of outstanding firms and composed a basic letter of request or blueprints.

Next step was the typing classes, where letters were sent to each of the 104 selected companies.

Results were immediate, as companies began sending samples of their work. Nearly 70% of those contacted replied, even though postage was at each firm's expense, with some mailing tubes and packages requiring up to 45¢ for postal service.

The next step was back in the drafting room as results were received and there was no suitable place to display the blueprints. Students quickly designed the inclined table after rejecting such designs as loose-leaf covers, wall hangers and library newspaper holders.

With design in hand, the metal shop took over, cutting and welding the framework for the table. To protect the drafting room floor, furniture glides were attached to the tubing.

Next, it was back to the drafting room again, where the 4-foot by 8-foot inclined top was installed, stained and finished. In the middle of the table arch clips were installed, to allow blueprints to be turned like the pages of a book. Edges of the samples were then strip-reinforced and put together on the table.

With the project complete, Mt. Miguel's drafting students now are able to compare techniques and seek solutions to architectural design problems with the best of professional work.

Due to the tremendous response from the firms, samples were screened by the students before display, which gave students a chance to critique the professional work

DECA is a national organization for business students which serves as a type of service club for 150,000 members in all states and territories. More Contributions Give Hope To L.G. Youth Center Operation

"Just to give them a challenge, I'm going to double the proceeds of the first $20 the kids as the L.G. Youth Center earn in your project," said an anonymous acquaintance standing in a $20 bill.

The project is this newspaper's way of generating needed funds for the operation of the Youth Center on School Lane while increasing the number of readers of this publication.

When the youngsters sell a subscription ($4), they get $2.50 for the Center's use. There is also a professional salesperson who is calling by phone. The salesperson gets $2 and the Center gets 50 cents. "The proceeds are welcome," reported Center Supervisor Dale Wood last week.

"The kids are responding enthusiastically to the idea that the Center is going to remain open," he said.

The Youth Center Association has not had the income recently to carry the Center's obligations except what they said out of their own pockets for the most part.

"Taxes and insurance are due," Woods said. "Without the money the newspaper generated we possibly would have closed."

In addition to the money paid by this newspaper, other funds have begun to come in. A man gave $100; a woman, $10 and the anonymous prize of $20 this week has begun to pay for repairs, equipment and operation.

A man gave us basketball equipment last week," Wood said. The youngsters were singing it Friday. "We had a degree of people success last week, too," Wood beamed. "We got one of our youngsters a job."

The Center is a gathering place for youngsters who have approaching adulthood problems. Some are school drop-outs. All are in their early-to-mid teens. They gather at the Center to play at rafts, or athletics to listen to radio, hi-fi or watch teevee — but mostly to "rap." There is a great need for some youngsters to be able to talk to each other without being "put down" by the "establishment" according to some counselors.

Last week arrangements were made for several college-student counselors to work at the Center for on-the-job training. They helped lighten the load of the professional director.

So things were looking brighter for the Center, a member of the Youth Center Association said as 42 local families showed their interest by taking part in the Center-subscription project last week. They are:

Mt Miguel Good Bet To Claim Loop Flag

By Paul Stark

On the eve of the Grossmont League pennant race, most of the loop's coaches are looking at Mt. Miguel and Helix as the teams to beat in 1972, replacing the once-pow-erful Santana Sultans.

Mt. Miguel, the American Legion Championship team, boasts a fine pitching crew in Bob Pannell, Steve Long, and Terry Holm, and has the bats to back up the hurlers.

The Matador infield will be a tough one to match, as Ted Updike, Tim Miller, and Phil Williamson provide a flashy defensive corps. The local team also has plenty of bench strength with the likes of Jess Jenner and Jim Reese ready for action.

Behind the plate will be the league's top backstop in Mike Bruner, and the Matadors also have a good outfield with Buster Ledesma, Gary Osberg and Mike Ursillo wielding heavy bats.

For Mt. Miguel, fierce competition for the loop crown will be offered by the Helix Highlanders, who have the best pitchers in the league, although slightly less batting ability.

The highlanders will keep opposing batters off stride with Tom Erautt, Ken Sluder, and Clay Fox on the mound. Dennis Dupree and Glen Jarvis are steady performers in the infield, and Dave Oliver and Sam Smith will anchor down the outfield.

A good bet for third place this year will be Grossmont High, although the Hillers lack a solid pitching crew. Randy Bowker is the team's hottest prospect on the mound, with Tom Rundle also slated for hurling duties.

The infield, with Jerry Reid and Larry Olsen leading the way, looks pretty sharp, and an outfield boasting Larry Wolfe and Mark Fahl will do a capable job chasing flies.

El Capitan, tagged for fourth place, is weak on the mound but will have a good batting group with the likes of Ed Rutledge and Chuck

Anderson to swing heavy wood.

Granite Hills and El Cajon, a dark horse, will battle it out for the top spot in the second division, with El Cajon dubbed the better pitching team and Granite Hills with better hitting.

Seventh and eighth place will belong to a pair of teams that should have good pitching but no hitting. Santana will have Hank Arviso on the hill, while Monte Vista's Rick Baker looks like one of the best in the league.

Following are what the standings will probably look like:

Mt. Miguel	12-2
Helix	10-4
Grossmont	9-5
El Capitan	7-7
Granite Hills	7-7
El Cajon	6-8
Santana	3-11
Monte Vista	2-12

Gomez, Jokes Due At Annual Baseball Dinner

He won 189 big league games and he will be enshrined in the Hall of Fame this year, but ask someone about Lefty Gomez and he'll start telling a joke.

There will be plenty of those, for sure, when the former New York Yankee pitcher will be one of the featured guests at the fourth annual dinner honoring the San Diego Padres.

The event is sponsored by the San Diego Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association and will be held April 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the Convention Center, Town and Country Hotel. A no-host cocktail hour begins at 6:30 and tickets are available at $20 each or in tables of 10.

Lefty Gomez once was picked off second base, "because it was the first time I'd been there," he said, pointing out a congenial weakness with a bat in his hand.

But he could pitch. He won six World Series games without a loss. He won 21 games in 1931, 24 in 1932 and in 1934 his record was 26-5, leading the league in wins, percentage at .839, complete games with 25, innings pitched with 281.2, strikeouts with 158 and shutouts with 6.

A sore arm in 1940 led to the end of his career, but he went out smiling, and the wit has grown sharper.

Recently he spotted black immortal Satchel Paige.

"Hey, Satch," Gomez inquired, "was Abraham Lincoln a crouch hitter?"

Further dinner information may be obtained from chairman Rick Smith at 234-7111, ext. 254, or tickets also may be purchased by enclosing a check to P.O. Box 6461, San Diego.

Holy Thursday is the 40th day after Easter.

NOT LONG ENOUGH — Monte Vista High School, with sweeps in the 880 and mile, swamped the Santana Sultans, 74-62 last Friday at the Monte Vista oval, but the Sultan long jumpers were not to blame. Monte Vista jumpers ended up on the short end of things as Mike Holmes led the Santana sweep with a 20-11 3/4 leap.

Monarchy Knocks Off Santana For First Track Win Of Year

By Tom Blattler

The Monte Vista Monarchy track team, dominating the distance races, downed the Santana Sultans, 74-62, last Friday afternoon in Grossmont League action on the winners' track.

The victory for the Monarchs was their first of the season against three losses, one of which occurred in league competition. The loss was the second straight in the Grossmont League for Santana.

Both Monte Vista and Santana won eight first place finishes in the meet, but the Monarchs grabbed nine section prizes to the Sultans' five. Santana captured the advantages in the third best efforts winning eight to Monte Vista's six.

Paul Baker was the Monarchy's only double winner, as he won the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.6 seconds and the 180-yard low hurdles clocked in 21.0.

Santana contributed a pair of two-event winners in Mike Neal and Mike Holmes. Neal, a sophomore, captured the 100-yard dash in :10.4 and the 220 in 23.5 seconds. Holmes won the long jump in 20 feet, 11 1/2 inches and the triple jump with a leap of 40-8.

Monte Vista completely dominated the distance events, as the local team took second and third in the 440, one, two, three in the 880, one, two, three in the mile, and first, and second in the two-mile. The Monarchs outscored the Sultans in those four races 30-6.

Junior Mike McGrath grabbed the win in the 880 in a time of 2:03.8. Junior Gary Close won the mile with a 4:30.8, and senior John Blair captured the two-mile in 10:11.7.

In other spring sports action at Monte Vista, the Patrick Henry tennis team defeated the Monte Vista team, 22-15-5, last Friday in the fifth annual Monte Vista Tennis Invitational. The second place finish for the Monarchs was their best ever in the tournament's short history. Monte Vista finished third last year.

The Monte Vista golf and baseball teams will compete tomorrow against Santana at the Sultans home fields beginning at 3 p.m. The Monarch spikers will visit El Capitan this afternoon, also at 3 p.m.

The number of cases of measles reported in the U. S. from Oct. 1971 has declined 42 per cent as compared to a year ago, according to the National Center for Disease Control. Widespread use of the new vaccines is given as the reason.

Alworth To Be Member Of Hall Of Fame

Lance Alworth, who established himself as one of the greatest receivers in the history of professional football during his years with the San Diego Chargers, will become the 33rd member of the San Diego Hall of Champions' Hall of Fame in Balboa Park.

His induction will be made official at the 26th annual Banquet of Champions, co-sponsored by the Greater San Diego Sports Assn. and the Breitbard Athletic Foundation, Tuesday night, at 7 p.m., in the Town and Country Hotel Convention Center.

Alworth, whose acrobatic catches and long touchdown strikes became as much a symbol of the San Diego Chargers as the lightning bolt that adorns their helmets, becomes the first Charger elected to the area's sports Hall of Fame.

Gulls' Playoff Battle Tightens

DENVER — The San Diego Gulls continue their battle for playoff position here tomorrow night when they tackle the league-leading Denver Spurs in the opener of still another big weekend of action.

The Gulls will return home Saturday night to battle the Phoenix Roadrunners at the Sports Arena. Game time for that clash will be 8 o'clock.

The Gulls will stay in San Diego and meet the Seattle Totems next Wednesday night at the Sports Arena. That game will conclude the seasonal series with the Totems, who also met the Gulls last night at the Sports Arena.

Wednesday night's game will be Golden Arrow Dairy Puck Night. Each youngster, 14 years of age or under, will receive a free puck compliments of the Gulls and Golden Arrow Dairy.

The Gulls trail in the series against the Spurs, 5-4-3. The remaining two games of the series, counting tomorrow night's, will be played in Denver. The Spurs have a 3-1 edge in Denver, while the Gulls finished the San Diego portion of the series with a 3-2-2 edge.

Against arch-rival Phoenix, the Gulls trail, 4-7-2, in the seasonal series, with two of the remaining three games of the series slated for San Diego ice. The Gulls have a 3-2-1 bulge on home ice, while the Roadrunners are 5-1-1 in Phoenix.

During last week's hectic activity, the Gulls saw their unbeaten streak reach seven games before it was snapped. San Diego also regained third place from Portland for 24 hours before falling one point behind the Buckaroos again on Sunday night.

San Diego entered this week's activity trailing the third-place Buckaroos by a single point and behind second-place Phoenix by five points. Portland and the Gulls each had nine games left, while Phoenix had 10 games to play.

Track Meet On Tap

A track and field meet for boys and girls ages 8 through 18 years of age in the Heartland area will be held April 1 at 10:30 a.m. at Helix High School.

Information and entry blanks may be picked up at the La Mesa Recreation Center, 840 University ave. in La Mesa. Entry deadline is tomorrow.

Along a 1.68 mile stretch of Jefferson boulevard, Los Angeles, hundreds of trees and shrubs have been placed by the city to improve the scenery. They are all plastic.

Hilltop Hitting, Brave Hurling Stop Matadors

Good hitting by the Hilltop Lancers and fine pitching by El Cajon extended Mt. Miguel's losing streak to three games last week in prep pre-season baseball action.

The Matadors, picked to win the Grossmont League race this season, were unable to contain Hilltop hitting Tuesday afternoon and lost, 5-3.

Hilltop drew first blood in the game when Stan Buzzel belted a two-out single to right field in the second inning off losing pitcher Bob Pannell to drive in a pair of runs.

Mt. Miguel scored in the bottom of the frame when John Mumaw blooped a single over second base to drive in Gary Osberg.

In the third inning, Pannell continued to have troubles, as the Lancers hit three singles wrapped around an excellent sacrifice bunt to add a run, making the score 3-1.

Mt. Miguel bounced back again in the bottom of the third to tie the game, as Gary Osberg belted a booming triple to drive in Buster Ledesma. Osberg scored moments later on a solid smack by Bill Cohen.

The game's winning run was tallied in the fourth inning on singles by Ross Gentry and Evon Martinson and a passed ball.

Mt. Miguel put rallies together in the sixth and seventh innings, but the locals couldn't get a run across.

On Friday, the Matadors lost a tight pitchers' battle between Steve Long and Scott Temple for the Braves, 2-1.

Long pitched well in the contest, giving up but three hits, walking four and fanning six Braves. Temple gave up four Matador hits, walked two and struck out a pair en route to the victory.

The deciding runs in the game were given up in the first and second innings, both on errors by usually steady performer Phil Williamson.

Mt. Miguel picked up its sole score in the fifth frame when John Mumaw, proving himself as a clutch hitter, pasted a single to drive in Bill Cohen from second base.

The Miguelers will be back in action tomorrow afternoon against the Grossmont Foot-hillers at 3 p.m. on the Mt. Miguel field.

Mini-Ticket Campaign Passes 1,000 Mark

Sale of 1972 Mini-Season Tickets has nearly doubled last year's total, it was announced by Al Harutunian, Commissioner of the Padre Team. The sale has passed the 1,000 mark with six weeks remaining in the drive.

The Padre Action Team consists of more than 100 persons who have volunteered to sell Mini-Season Tickets.

The popular Mini-Season Ticket offers Padre fans 24 games for $84, plus a free ticket to a game with the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

THE BEST WAY TO RECYCLE

From your tired shelf or backroom closet comes the best way to recycle. Recycling for a better environment begins in many ways but one of the oldest includes giving to Goodwill. Giving to Goodwill includes recycling of human potential by giving people the opportunity to use their unique abilities in a worthwhile job — a job they might not otherwise have. And it recycles products so that others can use what you no longer need. In the next few days why not schedule some time to explore your tired shelves or backroom closets.

Take out those unused products and give them to Goodwill. You will be helping people help themselves by giving them jobs and supplying low cost goods for those who buy your discards and newly repaired items. Other kinds of recycling are good but one of the best ways to recycle is where everyone produces Goodwill.

It's up to you. Why not give to Goodwill?
